

NATIONAL CHILD PROTECTION WEEK 2019

Australia is now a multicultural country throughout our cities, towns, country towns and our communities.

Children do well when parents are supported. Not just Indigenous parents, but also non-Indigenous parents. This painting shows how everyone in our communities can support parents and help children grow up safe, healthy and strong.
We need to let kids be kids.

The centre circle represents the Child, surrounded by the second circle which represents the Parents. The third circle represents the Community, and the fourth circle represents the Service Providers.

Yellow feet are the child, and the boomerang represents our kids coming home.

The spears are what makes our Community strong.

Two circles represent our Elders in the Community who watch and use deep listening throughout the Community.

Bush tucker represents what keeps us strong and healthy.
