

A FILM ABOUT

Made collaboratively with children from public housing areas in the Illawarra, Protection uses a unique blend of film and animation to tell stories about childhood. It is inspired by the lives and experiences of the film's adventurous and often hilarious young cast.

There's a re-telling of Goldilocks - featuring three super cute aboriginal girls, a display home and a big, bad real estate agent. There's witches, parties and billy cart derbies, and a lovely wedding to an imaginary prince. And there are also stories of bullying and racism, death and grief and facing up to your fears and mistakes.

The kids were hands on with the cameras and sound equipment so it made the set crazy and fun. These are stories told by kids from their perspective, making Protection a celebration of childhood and a tribute to the resilience of children.

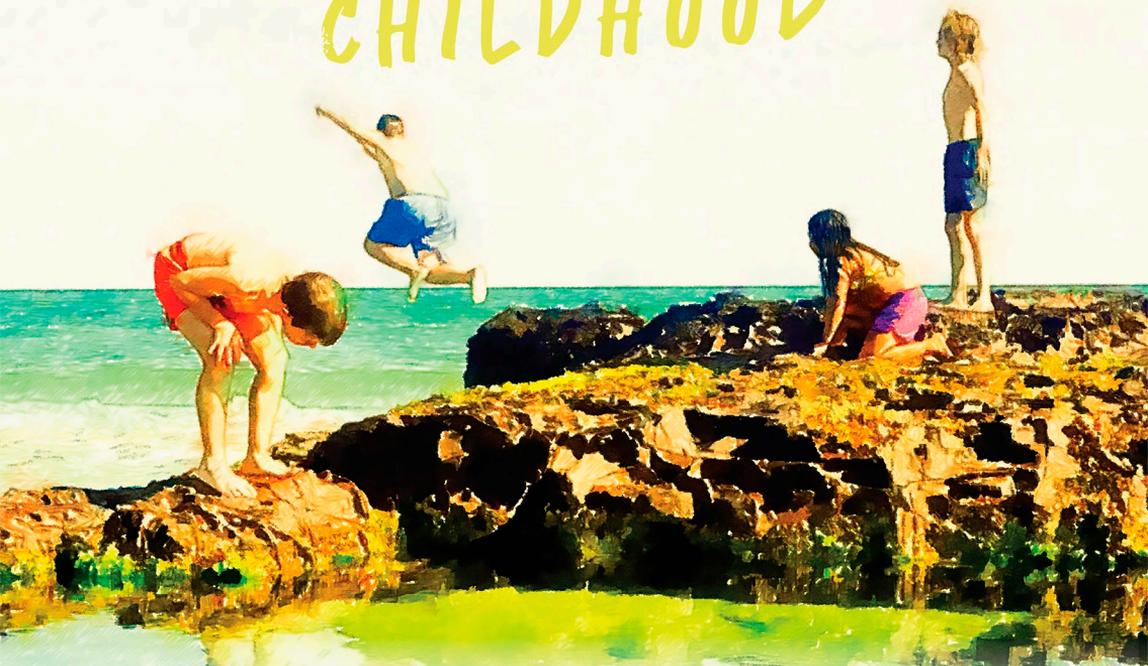

The company behind this project is Beyond Empathy - a not-for-profit organisation with the catch cry: We love art and we hate disadvantage!
